Services Offered Through the State’s Post-Permanency Support Program

DCFS’s regional Adoption Specialists assist adoptive and guardianship families who request support by providing the following post-permanency services:

- Case management — If a family requests to have a supportive services case opened, an Adoption Specialist will provide in-home case management. This service may include referrals to community-based providers, advocacy with Medicaid, and assistance in finding residential or acute treatment or other supports as identified by the family. All case management services are voluntary, and the family may choose to close their case at any time.
- Respite — Adoption Specialists can help families locate and pay for respite, even if the family is not receiving case management services. DCFS provides funding and referrals to private licensed placement agencies or therapeutic licensed foster care providers to find respite homes. There is no limit to how long respite care can be provided.

- Arkansas Mutual Consent Voluntary Adoption Registry — Once a biological parent’s rights are terminated, they may elect to have their name and contact information listed on a mutual consent registry should their child or children seek to contact them after they reach age 18 years. DCFS staff ensure both parties have the correct forms filled out and provide each party with the contact information listed.

Notes About Who Provides Which Service(s)

All services are provided by state staff.

Adoption/Guardianship Assistance/Subsidy Review and Changes

Families receiving guardianship subsidies receive an annual review letter to verify that their circumstances haven't changed. Adoptive families receive notification of how to request an extension of benefits or notification subsidy benefits end before the child turns 18.

Adoption or guardianship assistance agreements can be changed at any time. Parents or guardians must submit a written request to the local DCFS Adoption Specialist.

Tracking Adoption/Guardianship Discontinuity

DCFS staff receive data on re-entry on a regular basis, and staff pay particular attention to the age of the child or youth, if services were requested or provided, and the reason why the child or youth returned to care. This information is shared with Adoption Specialists, as well as used to modify policies and procedures as needed.
